South's defense also proved effective, holding Kahok March Fletcher to nine points in the first half.

The third period of play was the heatinning of the local squad's downfall when Collinsville capitalized on South's Gouls, created in part by the twoman defense on Fletcher, to outscore the Warriors 25-7.

Granite City had 28 fouls and Colinsville 12 in the game. The main difference in scoring was the enemy's accuracy from the foul line. Colinsville made good 25 of 31 shots at each good 25 of 31 shots at eight of 19. The Warriors were to lose three of their main players on personal fouls before the game ended. Keith Gehling, Dale williams and Mike Martinez. Gehling was lost out Williams and Martinez went out early in the fourth period. # Here's Our Plan

The new nuclear power-generating plant that Illinois Power is plan-ning near Clinton in central Illinois will provide the tremendous crease in our generating capacity we will need to serve our customers in 1980.

Illinois Power also plans to pro-vide quality recreation facilities as a by-product of our responsibility to meet increasing energy demands. The Clinton site provides an exceptional opportunity to create one of the most exciting new public rec-reation areas in Illinois.

An extensive study by a leading firm of professional landscape architects provides a preview the facilities which can be yours to enjoy at Clinton within a few years.

A 5,000 acre lake, needed for cooling purposes, is planned to become the center of a huge waterbased recreation area. This would include a swimming beach and picnicking area, marinas for both rental boats and private lease and seven boat launching sites. Swim-ming, water skiing, boating, canoe-ing and fishing could all be enjoyed

The plan also includes 98 acres of full-service campgrounds, as well as many primitive campsites reached only by water or trail.

Eighteen miles of maintained trails are planned to accommodate hikers, cyclists and horseback

The natural vegetation of the environment would be preserved and local landmarks restored. The area would be a protected haven for wildlife.

Similar facilities have been developed by Illinois Power for use by the public at other electric generating sites, but the 15,000 acre Clinton site would be the largest and most complete.

Added protection for animals in pet shops

Little doggie in the window; take notice; you've got a friend. A new state law, dubbed the Animal Welfare Act, makes it mandatory for all pet establish-ments to obtain a license from the Department of Agriculture. This includes pet shops, ken-nels, catteries, pounds and animal shelters as defined in the law.

Previously, under the 1965-enacted Pet Shop Act, only those shops selling or offering for adoption dogs and cats not raised by the shop needed to obtain a license. The new law adds fish, birds, reptiles and other animals.

State adding to its costs by reacting to some 'needs' that may not exist

Because most issues are neither Because most issues are neither black nor white but various shades of grey, the Press-Record and other newspapers endeavor to provide both "pro" and "con" background information. An example is the two-part report on rising state govern-ment costs on this page today and lan 3.

Jan. 3. Among other points, State Treasurer Alan Dixon linked tripling of state spending to the era of annual rather than biennial General Assembly sessions. State-Rep. Harold Katz today cites citizens' desire for government to intervene and try to remedy an increasing number and range of problems facing individuals and groups.

There undoubtedly is a lot of truth in both viewpoints.

An overall conclusion might be that, while the state would like to be that, while the state would like to be "all things to all people," it is talking itself into a lot of questionable new programs involving unnecessarily large staffs and excessively well-paid ecutives

The number of $25,000 to $40,000 The number of $25,000 to $44,000 a year administrators added by the governor this year unquestionably is startling; he may have pledged to weed out many 'middle management' personnel, but he seems to have more than made up for this with new upper level officials Aside from the basic issue of how much the Illinois government should spend, Treasurer Dixon made a few side comments that bear repeating because of their "tell it like it is" approach:

"Most things that a lot of people with the property and the state of the state

"Most things that a lot of people are screaming about are absolutely necessary at one given point in time or another. But it really isn't as important as we think it is—and I don't mean this in a callous way.

"In every session I was involved in over a 20-year span, something always captivated the imagination of renorters and newspaper editors.

"The truth of the matter is that in every one of those rare instances when the legislature 'failed and didn't respond' (to such an issue) government got along just fine.

"Everybody got along just fine. "Everybody got along just fine. on the properties of the prope dous at all.

"I'm persuaded that short of national emergencies—war and pestilence and things of that sort—most of the crises are colorful exaggerations of fact."

While Mr. Dixon may be guilty of a bit of exaggeration himself, his views on real and imagined crises provide insight into how the state tends to react to them by shouldering a constantly heavier and costlier burden of services and objectives.

Proposed exposition authority, performing arts center still 'alive, well'

One of the most intriguing proposals involving Madison County is the plan for a convention and performing arts center, to be erected in cooperation with the state government.

Rather than utilizing tax funds, the eventually self-supporting project would rely on the same race track proceeds used to replace Mc-Cormick Place in Chicago after fire rmick Place in Chicago and a stroyed the original structure.

In addition to aiding the No. 1 and No. 2 concentrations of population in Illinois, such a program could be extended in turn to the third, fourth, fifth and other to the third, fourth, fifth and other metropolitain areas.

State Senator Sam M. Vadalabene of this district originated the proposal in the early 1970s and is continuing the effort to obtain approval. His 1974 status report on the plan is as follows:

"Last year, we almost completed the process of establishing the exposition authority, which would help us get our fair share of convention, meeting and tourist business. This year, we may be able to go all the way with this project.

philosophy on government services

Editor's Note: Five years ago, illinois lawmakers destinated in the meet annually instead of every two years. The new practice, it was hoped, would enable the members to better cope with the ever-increasing problems of our growing society. This is the second of two articles giving the pro and con our whether of the produce of the meeting annual centre. State Repair Matta, a Democratiform Glencoe, who produced one of the first solid arguments for annual session in a book he co-authored in 1967, still stands by his recommendations.

I have divided opinions on it. .. It is a matter that is not a black and white subject.

The longer we stay in session the more the legislature becomes incompatible with other professions. I believe that a large number of edity that is a large number of edity desirable and I would hate to see a situation where the legislature consists of people who work only for the interest of private firms, companies or interest groups.

Welfare medical bills will be more closely watched

SPRINGFIELD — Closer attention is now being paid to bills for medical services to welfare patients in Illinois, by a special unit in the Department of Public Aid.

Payments for such services take up more than 40 per cent of the department's billion-dollar-plus budget, in the budget for fiscal 174, for in stance, 5881,237,400 was appropriated to over payments to doctors, dentists, opportunities, and the like. The federal government provides matching funds on a 50-50 basis to pay the bills.

Robert Wessel, deputy di-rector of the department's Bureau of Medical Services, heads up the six-man investi-gating unit, which began functioning on Nov. 1. Barbara Wright, in the department's Public Informa-tion Office, said the investi-gating unit includes no doc-tors. AUTOMOBILE TAKEN

The 1968 auto of Charles Walker, Edwardsville, was stolen from a Granite City Steel Co. parking lot, Walker reported Thursday.

It's the talk of the Quad Cities. WGNU's popular Party Line program is an everyday eature now, with Granite City Steel sponsoring the first hour from 3 to 4 p.m.

Party Line is a rapid, steady stream of what's happening: Regular reports from City Hall, the Police Department, the high schools, the hospital, the county court house and, of course, the steel mill. Plus local and national news, sports and markets, an occasional special guest, and audience jackpots. If that's not enough, in between there's a chance for you — the listener — to call and say whatever's on your mind.

Party Line, the perfect way to end the afternoon — informed. A very public service of Granite City Steel. Weekdays 3 to 4 p.m. on WCNII/AM 920 on the dial.
